Retail Payment System Modernization

On August 5, 2019, the Federal Reserve Board announced:

- The Federal Reserve Banks will develop a new real-time clearing and settlement service that would operate continuously each day of the year called the FedNow Service, to support instant payments in the United States
- This announcement was the result of a multi-year collaborative process between the Federal Reserve System and the banking and payments industry to improve the speed, safety, and efficiency of the U.S. payment system

On August 6, 2020, the Board announced details on the features and functionality of the service

Benefits of Instant Payments

Driven by advances in technology, instant payments provide economic benefits

Small Businesses

- Improved cash flow management
- Reduced payment processing costs (paper checks)

Individuals and Households

- Make time-sensitive payments whenever needed
- Potentially avoid late fees or other costs

The FedNow Service

The service will

- Enable financial institutions across the country to offer instant payments to their customers
- Operate alongside privatesector services, consistent with Federal Reserve's role in the payment system
- Provide a modern retail payment infrastructure for safe and efficient instant payments that allows innovation and competition to flourish

Determining factors

- Analysis of public comments received in response to the 2018 request for comment
- Board's policy assessment that such a service would meet the requirements of the Monetary Control Act and the Board's criteria for new or enhanced Reserve Bank payment services

Public Benefits of the FedNow Service

Accessibility

- The FedNow Service will be accessible to financial institutions of all sizes, including smaller banks in rural and remote areas of the country, allowing participants to offer instant payments to communities they serve
- Broad accessibility will support the development of instant payments with nationwide reach

Safety

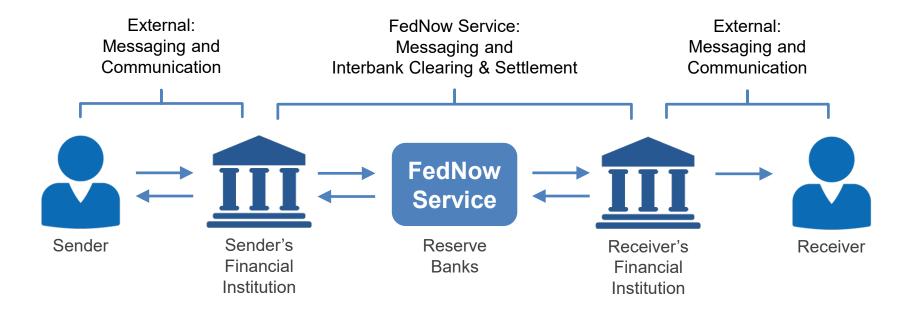

- Financial institutions will be able to achieve resiliency through redundancy
- The Federal Reserve will continue its vital role in providing liquidity and operational continuity to the retail payment system in times of crisis
- As an operator, the Federal Reserve will promote the development and implementation of fraud-related standards

Efficiency

- The FedNow Service will be a key part of the foundation on which financial institutions across the country and the broader payments industry can build modern, innovative instant payment services
- Increased competition in RTGS instant payment services can yield lower prices and higher service quality, ultimately benefitting end users
