

CYBERSECURITY WORKSHOP

CDMX Digital

PRESENTATION:

In an economic and financial landscape that has changed significantly, due to the digital transformation that the COVID-19 pandemic triggered. In this environment, the financial sector and regulators face complex challenges in ensuring a high level of cyber resilience in the face of cyber-attacks. Thus, this workshop will discuss key issues that support regulators with the analysis of the financial sector to improve its cyber resilience within the new paradigm.

MODE:

Digital (via Zoom) – Simultaneous Interpretation, English - Spanish.

SPONSORS:

The Center for Latin American Monetary Studies (CEMLA) and the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

PARTICIPANTS:

Central banks and financial supervisory authorities from Latin American and Caribbean.

THURSDAY

13
OCT.
2022

Mexico City
Local time
(UTC-5)

09:00 – 09:15

Welcome and Introduction

- Gerardo Hernández del Valle, Acting Director DIMF, CEMLA
- Caio Fonseca Ferreira, Deputy Chief of the Financial Supervision and Regulation Division of the Monetary and Capital Markets Department, IMF

09:15 – 10:00

Session 1

Workshop introduction: Overview of the cyber threat landscape and global developments

- Tamas Gaidosch, IMF

10:00 – 11:00

Session 2

Effective cyber regulation and supervision – key components and major challenges

- Alejandro de los Santos, Bank of Mexico
- Fernando Romero, Central Bank of the Argentine Republic

11:00 – 11:10

Break

11:10 – 12:10

Session 3

How to establish a cybersecurity strategy for the financial sector?

- Rangachary Ravikumar, IMF

12:10 - 12:55

Session 4

Select Cyber Resilience Enablers: Tests, exercises, information sharing

- Emran Islam, IMF

12:55 - 13:05

Closing Remarks

- Emran Islam, Senior Financial Sector Expert in the Financial Regulation and Supervision Division, IMF
- Gerardo Hernández del Valle, Acting Director DIMF, CEMLA